

STUDENT EMERGENCY FUND

The ASU-Newport Student Emergency Fund exists to provide one-time financial assistance to students who find themselves in situations of economic need, which would interfere with their educational pursuits. Often, being able to overcome an unexpected monetary crisis can make the difference between a student remaining in school or not.

Statistics prove students who interrupt their program of study, even with the intention of returning, are less likely to complete degrees than those who can find a way to overcome crises. Not all students have the necessary resources to weather a temporary hardship. This fund is available to qualifying students to assist them in remaining on track and achieving their educational goals.
